New Laws, Regulations, Forms are Topics of Charity Gaming Seminars

Legislative changes, new forms, new rules and new regulations are on the agenda for this year's six educational charity gaming training seminars scheduled throughout the state beginning with Friday, April 23, in Indianapolis and Saturday, April 24, in Plymouth, the Indiana Department of Revenue has announced. A panel discussion will be included.

Officials from the Department, which administers charity gaming events in Indiana, will cover issues that affect all nonprofit organizations, and specific information regarding charity gaming activities will be highlighted.

Reservations are not required, but seating will be limited. Doors open at 8:00 a.m. for registration, and the seminars will begin promptly at 9:00 a.m. Since heavy attendance is expected, participants may want to arrive early. Persons needing special accommodations should call 317-232-4646 at least 72 hours in advance.

Clarksville will be the site of the third seminar on April 30, and Lafayette, Jasper and Muncie will be hosting seminars in September and October.
